

Hay Market Demand and Price Report for the Upper Midwest For September 28, 2020

Data Compiled by Richard Halopka Senior Outreach Specialist
UW-Madison Division of Extension Clark County
Crops & Soils Educator

All hay prices quoted are dollars per ton FOB point of origin for alfalfa hay unless otherwise noted.

The information presented in this report is compiled from public and private quality tested sales and reports in the Midwest.

The past several months of hay reports are archived and you may view previous hay reports, go to <http://fyi.uwex.edu/forage/> on the Team Forage web site and click on the past hay reports section.

Hay auction data is collected on the first and third week of the month and posted by or before Tuesday. Prices quoted in this report are for “as fed” alfalfa hay.

Demand and Sales Comments

Dairy quality hay remains in demand and prices are steady with pressure to reduce prices. Lower quality hay prices are declining as is demand. If you need forage or have forage to sell, connect to the Farmer-to-Farmer webpage at <http://farmertofarmer.uwex.edu/>. You may contact your local county agriculture educator if you need help placing an ad. There is no charge for the service.

Straw prices are for oat, barley, or wheat straw. Straw prices were steady to weaker at the auctions. Quality has a great impact on straw prices. Small square bales averaged $3.75 a bale (range of $3.50 to $6.00). Large square bale straw averaged $44.00 per bale (a range of $25.00 to $75.00). Large round bale straw averaged $44.00 per bale (a range of $32.00 - $65.00).

In Nebraska, all forages sold steady with a $5.00 increase on western side of the state. Demand for hay improved this week. Most hay is moving out of state with a small amount remaining local. In Iowa, prices on all types of hay were mostly steady.

In South Dakota, all classes of hay sold steady this week. There is moderate demand for all classes of hay with the grass hay market very slow. Soybean harvest is moving along.

In Missouri, hay movement remains limited. Demand is light with heavy supplies in the state. Fall harvest is moving forward with corn silage harvest and soybeans coming off the fields.

In Southwest Minnesota, prices were steady with a limited supply of quality hay at the market. In Kansas, hay market trade is incredibly slow. Farmers are very busy with fall harvest in the state.

In Wisconsin, prices are steady too strong for quality hay with good crowd attending the auction. Lower quality hay prices have backed off. Hay market is strong for dairy quality hay.

The next Hay Market Demand and Price Report for the Upper Midwest will be posted by Tuesday, October 13, 2020.
