All hay prices quoted are dollars per ton FOB point of origin for alfalfa hay unless otherwise noted.

The information presented in this report is compiled from public and private quality tested sales and reports in the Midwest.

The past several months of hay reports are archived and you may view previous hay reports, go to <http://fyi.uwex.edu/forage/> on the Team Forage web site and click on the past hay reports section.

Hay auction data is collected on the first and third week of the month and posted by or before Tuesday. Prices quoted in this report are for “as fed” alfalfa hay.

Demand and Sales Comments

Dairy quality hay is in demand and prices are steady this week. Lower quality hay was discounted compared to previous weeks at the auctions. Central Wisconsin has a surplus of hay available, contact a trucker if looking for hay as many will haul to drought areas. If you need forage or have forage to sell or straw, connect to the Farmer-to-Farmer webpage at <http://farmertofarmer.uwex.edu/>. You may contact your local county agriculture educator if you need help placing an ad. There is no charge for the service.

Straw prices are for oat, barley, or wheat straw. Straw prices are steady with a limited supply of straw. Small square bales averaged $4.30 a bale (range of $3.00 to $6.00). Large square bale straw averaged $40.00 per bale (a range of $20.00 to $67.00). Large round bale straw averaged $31.00 per bale (a range of $17.00 - $50.00).

In Nebraska, all forages sold at steady prices with a very good demand. In Iowa, supply is good, demand is steady, and prices are steady.

In South Dakota, quality hay sold steady with good demand. Drought has resulted in reduce grazing and hay availability. Corn silage harvest may have reduced numbers at hay auctions.

In Missouri, prices are steady with moderate supply and light demand. Corn silage harvest may have resulted in low numbers.

In Southwest Minnesota, prices were steady. In Kansas, market prices were steady, demand is fair to good for alfalfa with a slower trade this week.

In Wisconsin, prices are steady for dairy quality hay. There is a large supply of hay in Central Wisconsin. If you are in need of hay contact truckers to move some hay.

The next Hay Market Demand and Price Report for the Upper Midwest will be posted by Tuesday, September 28, 2021.
