

INTERNATIONALIZING COOPERATIVE EXTENSION
What It Can Mean to You, Extension and Our Communities

Friday, September 17, 2004
Wintergreen Resort, Wisconsin Dells

- 9:00 Registration
- 9:30-9:40 Welcome and Introductions
John Preissing, Northern District Director, Cooperative Extension
Chair, Cooperative Extension International Committee
- 9:40-10:00 Internationalizing Extension –Meeting the Institutional Challenge
Arlen Leholm
Dean and Director
Cooperative Extension, University of Wisconsin-Extension
- 10:00-11:00 Internationalizing Extension
*What does it mean to be an international organization? What might it look like?
What are the challenges and opportunities?*
Dr. Binaya Subedi, Assistant Professor
School of Education
The Ohio State University
- 11:00-11:15 Break
- 11:15-12:15 The Value of a Global Perspective for Wisconsin Communities
Panel members will share why they feel a global perspective is important and some their own experiences in dealing with challenges and opportunities that UW-Extension and Wisconsin citizens face in understanding and adapting to those changes.

Al Anderson, CRD Specialist, Center for Community Economic Development
Sandi Cihlar, Dairy Farmer & Wisconsin Rural Leadership Program Alumni
Case Dorresteyn, Owner, New Horizons Agriculture LLC
Tom Cadwallader, Lincoln and Marathon County Extension – Moderator, Chair of the Workshop Planning Committee
- 12:15-1:00 Lunch
- 1:00-2:30 Becoming a More International Extension Service
Facilitated group discussions defining what it means to become a more global Extension professional, organization and community, and what needs to be done to get us there.
- 2:30-3:00 Report Results of Group Discussions
- 3:00-3:20 What We Heard and Where to Start
Arlen Leholm and Binaya Subedi will give their impressions of what they heard reported from the group discussions and what the next steps should be in meeting the goals that have been identified.
- 3:20-3:30 Wrap-up and Evaluations – Tom Cadwallader