

The Wisconsin Association of County Agricultural Agents (WACAA) is a professional organization for county and area Extension educators/outreach specialists and UW-Madison specialists with Extension appointments.

WACCA objectives:

- encourage excellence and professionalism
- improve effectiveness of Extension programs
- help members with professional improvement opportunities
- recognize and promote superior achievement
- provide opportunities for the exchange of program ideas
- encourage qualified people to make Extension a career
- bring attention to individuals and organizations who give assistance and leadership to Extension programs and the Association
- help improve workplace conditions, salaries, and benefits for all of Extension

Professional Improvement:

WACAA encourages members to seek opportunities for professional improvement in the areas of Agronomy/Pest Management, Ag Economics, Animal Science, Forestry/Natural Resources, Horticulture/Turfgrass and Aquaculture. Member participation is encouraged at tours, seminars, and workshops held in conjunction with the NACAA Annual Meeting and Professional Improvement Conference (NACAA-AMPIC).

Extension Development:

WACAA encourages development of extension programs by fostering teaching, communication, and leadership skill development with early career program opportunities and through participation in public relations and agriculture issues forums.

Program Recognition & Awards:

WACAA annually recognizes extension work by members with a number of awards in several categories that demonstrate excellence in applied research, communications, agricultural extension programming, programs and service to 4-H, communities, and clientele. The association also tries to recognize Extension Specialists with the Second Mile award and to individuals and organizations who provide support and assistance to extension programs through the Friend of the County Agent awards.
